Teachers College Alumni Are Leaders

"Coiled up in this institution, as in a spring, there is a vigor whose uncoiling may wheel the spheres."

This quotation, taken from Horace Mann's dedicatory address when the normal school was dedicated at Bridgewater, Mass., in 1846, opens the 24th report to the Teachers College Board by Richard Browne, executive officer and educational coordinator of the Board.

The report deals with the quality of the teachers college graduates, the demand for their services, placements, etc. Basing his figures on reports from the alumni offices at Eastern, Normal, Western, and Northern, Browne notes that graduates of these colleges are serving as county superintendents in at least 24 Illinois counties, are superintendents in a majority of the 272 community unit districts of the state, and are principals in at least 165 schools. Alumni of these colleges are listed as teachers in no less than 92 of the colleges holding membership in the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education in 32 different states. Other graduates are teaching in state universities and liberal arts colleges throughout the nation.

Altho Dr. Browne's report does not give a college-by-college breakdown, Eastern grads may be proud of the number of leaders coming from their ranks.

In conclusion, Browne notes that the major portion of our graduates stay in the class-rooms of the elementary and secondary schools, doing work that is quiet, patient, and almost unnoticed but is crucial to the future of America.

Teachers College Board Moves To Eliminate Eastern State High

A move is underway at Eastern to eliminate the upper grades of the Eastern State High School within a few years and utilize public high schools, particularly Charleston High, for college practice teaching.

The Teachers College Board adopted a resolution favoring a co-operative arrangement with the Charleston Unit District as early as November, 1950. At that time thinking favored a cooperative arrangement so as to prevent duplication of facilities and specifically looking toward the use of the Charleston High School to provide facilities for student teaching at the senior high level and the creation of a large junior high school on the college campus.

The senior high building now under construction by Unit No. 1 and the proposed college junior high, for which plans have been drawn (but for which money has not been provided by the General Assembly), are both consistent with this earlier resolution.

Last October Board Chairman Lewis Walker instructed President R. G. Buzzard "to leave no stone unturned nor any obstacle in the way that would hinder this consolidation."

A committee of five Eastern faculty members has been selected by the Committee of Fifteen to investigate the possibilities of co-operation with the Charleston Unit District. A series of meetings has been held with interested groups. On March 2 Dr. Richard Browne, executive officer and educational coordinator for the Teachers College Board, addressed the Eastern faculty and made specific recommendations to a group representing the college and the Unit Board.

Dr. Browne stressed the necessity for providing good student teaching experiences and referred to the 1951 Yearbook of the Association.

Controversy Over Home Management Baby Brings Official Frowns, Popular Approval

Question: Will 'Too Many Mamas' Warp David's Personality?

'Is My Personality Warped?'

For more than a half a century the name of Eastern Illinois State College has been scattered across the nation and around the world by the thousands who have crossed campus and by others who have flocked endlessly to enhance its fame; but it took a six-month old baby boy to skyrocket the college into the national limelight.

There's nothing unusual about this baby boy; he is no different from the thousands of others his age, and his achievements are no more or less spectacular than those that please and torment all mothers.

But little David "North" does differ from most children his age in that he has twelve "mothers" and lives in one of the home management houses at Eastern.

The issue centering around David was prominently featured in newspapers from Duluth, Minn., in the North to the Canal Zone in the South; from New York in the East

Little David

Fame at an early age has come to David "North," Eastern's youngest student. These pictures appeared in several hundred newspapers following the revelation by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that the Illinois Department of Welfare did not approve of the arrangement which permits future home economics teachers to learn baby care by caring for a baby. The final chapter to the story is yet to be written, but David, apparently oblivious of the fact that he is an ideological storm center, is learning to walk, eat junior food, and distinguish between "Grandma" and "Mama."

The Eastern Alumnus wishes to express its appreciation to the Charleston Daily Courier and its city editor, Bob Black, '48, for the use of materials in the preparation of this story. All quotations noted in the accompanying story are taken directly from issues of the Courier.

to Phoenix, Ariz., in the West; television and radio networks carried reports, as did Life, Look, Time, and Newsweek magazines.

Under the byline of Robert W. Black, '48, city editor of the Charleston Courier, the following account of the controversy appeared in the Wednesday, January 13, issue of the Courier.

"The controversy over the practice, instituted at Eastern in 1952, which brings a live baby in to live at the home management house on the campus to give home economic majors an opportunity to care for a real baby, began Tuesday with a short story in a St. Louis paper (The St. Louis Post-Dispatch).

"A reporter for the paper called

Dr. Ruth Schmalhausen, director of the home management house, to get a report on the progress of the experiment.

"He told Miss Schmalhausen that he had been informed that the 'experiment was not successful and that you do not have a baby this year.' Miss Schmalhausen countered that the experiment was a success and that there was a baby living. (Continued on next page)

ing in the home again this year.

"In the course of the conversation it was brought out that the Child Welfare Services division had not placed its stamp of approval on the project.

"In checking with Illinois officials, the St. Louis reporter was told that the division objected to the practice and had made attempts to persuade Miss Schmalhausen to discontinue the program.

"From this beginning the storm of controversy broke into full bloom late Tuesday afternoon and continued today with state officials making a charge that the practice would warp the child's personality.

"Roman L. Haremski, superintendent of the Child Welfare Services division told the United Press in Springfield that a district officer in Champaign had been ordered to investigate.

"Haremski's assistant, Lela Carr, said the state disapproved of the baby's situation and might take steps. 'It has been the experience of the agency that so much damage might be done in the first year of the baby's life that giving the baby back to the mother in the second year could not correct it,' the state official said.

"Haremski said a psychiatrist attached to the U. N.'s World Health Organization recently published a study which indicated a baby's personality is formed in the first year of life.

"Miss Carr said she had already told the college that she disapproved of the system. She said very young children should not be separated from a single mother-person, either the real or a substitute one.

"In countering this statement, both Miss Schmalhausen and Dr. Robert G. Buzzard, president of the college, said that the baby living here would have been boarded elsewhere by its mother and would have been separated from a single mother-person had the college not agreed to care for it.

"In answering the charge that there was no 'father-person' present in the situation at Eastern, Miss Schmalhausen said, 'There would not be a father in the picture even if the baby were left in its own home.' The baby's mother is unwed.

"Haremski said the primary interest of Miss Schmalhausen was in 'teaching the girls' and her 'secondary interest was the baby.'

"Miss Schmalhausen was vigorous in her denial of this statement. 'It is impossible to teach baby care without having a primary interest in the welfare of the baby,' she said.

"Under the arrangement here, the baby lives in a $45,000 ranch-style home and has 12 'mothers' throughout the school year. Four college coeds, each a junior and a major in home economics, live in the home for three months and share the responsibility of caring for the infant. Each girl is assigned, in turn, as 'mother' and must do all things for the baby.

"Although Eastern is the first college in Illinois to have a baby in a home management house, other schools across the country have done it 'for years', Miss Schmalhausen said.

"She named Penn State University, where she was a director of a home management house, Ohio State University, Iowa State, Cornell, Temple and Purdue as a few.

"College officials were not the only ones who had comments on the controversy here today. Dr. William K. Hite, Charleston physician who has been the baby's doctor, issued this statement:

"The infant boy which has been entrusted to the care of Dr. Ruth Schmalhausen at Eastern is in excellent physical condition. He has received physical care which is far superior to that given in the best foundling homes and in most American homes.

"Furthermore he is, loved, which is a basic factor in the healthy emotional and developmental environment. These facts are obvious to anyone who will ethically and honestly observe them. This child has benefited tremendously from the good start he is receiving and will show it for years to come . . .

"The college will welcome an investigation by representatives of the Child Welfare Services,' Miss Schmalhausen said. 'There has never been a representative of that office at the home,' she said. 'We asked them to visit us and survey our program in 1952 when we first had a conference with the department about our program.'

The following day, a survey conducted by the United Press reported that "educators across the country had joined with Eastern in defending the use of the baby as part of a course in home management for home economics majors."

Meanwhile, plans for an investigation of the situation continued. Haremski said that "we feel pretty sure we have jurisdiction in the case in view of the fact that the child is away from its parent and not in a licensed (welfare) agency."

He suggested that the home management house should have applied for a license. When asked by Editor Black what action his division would take if the investigation and conference did not change the attitude of the division, Haremski said that "if the investigation warrants we will turn the material over to the local state attorney for proper action."

To this, Miss Schmalhausen replied, "We will continue to act to keep the baby."

Two Eastern faculty members then answered opinions of "experts" who suggested that the baby cared for by home economics trainees at Eastern might suffer "personality structure" damage.

Said Dr. William G. Wood, PhD in sociology: "The Department of Welfare is obviously attempting to apply a generalization of some validity to a particular and unique situation. They are concerned with conformity to a rule rather than with the welfare of individuals."

Psychologist Donald A. Rothchild said in answer to the question, "Do you think the child's personality will be warped by being placed in this environment until one year of age?"

"Most emphatically no! In my opinion, a child brought into these surroundings will be much better off so far as developing behavior patterns is concerned than it would be in a typical public institution for child care, which I understand was the alternative in this case . . ."

On January 15, Haremski, in a ment to the Courier, expressed confidence about the division's jurisdiction.

Section 299a and 299b of Chapter 23, Illinois Revised Statutes, 1953, tend to bear out Haremski's claim of jurisdiction in the case," said Editor Black.

The division of Child Welfare Services then moved to conduct an investigation. Charles Dixon, regional director of the Department of Public Welfare who has offices inampaign was to conduct the inquiry on Tuesday, January 19, one week following the opening of the controversy.

Meanwhile, local sentiment favored the college's position. Frank V. Cavins, chairman of the Coles County Welfare Service Advisory Committee, conducted his own investigation and reported: "I paid a visit to this young fellow that is the center of controversy. I was pleasantly surprised.

"From the charges that have been made, I thought I might see a very spoiled, squalling, mistreated baby. But I saw one of the happiest, healthiest and cutest babies I have seen in a long time."

Commenting on Haremski's statement that no "father-person" was present in David's home situation, Cavins said, "Who is the 'father-person' to all the unfortunate children in our orphan homes and foundling homes in the state?"

Dixon visited the campus on January 19 and made his investigation. He did not comment on the care of the child because his contact with the baby was brief and he did not have an opportunity to observe much of its care.

"I am here to get first hand information in the case," Dixon said. "My report should be in Springfield by Thursday and Dr. Haremski will probably turn the findings over to the attorney general for a ruling soon after."

According to the Courier report, the Child Welfare Services division could ask the attorney general to rule on the question of whether or not the division has jurisdiction over the case and whether or not the school needs to have a license as a "family home" to continue its practice of using a live baby in its home management program.

To date, no ruling by the attorney general has been forthcoming.

The most recent chapter in the case of David "North" was the publication by the Charleston Courier of an exclusive interview between Black, Courier editor, and David's mother. The interview was obtained by letter.

Black sent a letter containing seven questions to David's mother through Miss Schmalhausen. Miss Schmalhausen is the only person at the college who knows the woman's address and her name.

David's mother replied: "The arrangement with the college is very satisfactory with me and seems to agree with David as his response to the care is amazing."

In reply to a question concerning her present ability to care for the child, if he were returned to her, she said, "At the present time I would be unable to care for David and would undoubtedly be forced to place him in a welfare home if available.

"I have read several newspaper stories concerning David," she said. "My . . . paper states that the officials were afraid that David would be pampered or spoiled. A baby's main need is to feel secure and loved. A small baby that feels secure and wanted will not make too many demands for attention. Due to David's condition at birth, I'm sure the main reason he is so happy is the fact that he has received the required amount of tender, loving care."

In response to Black's question as to why she decided to "loan" David to the college, she said she was told that there was no welfare home "available to place my baby in."

"David was very ill when born and would have to have quite a lot of love and care when released from the hospital," she said. "Since I would have had to work in the day and really didn't know where or how I could get someone to take care of David, when I was told about the college I realized it would be the best solution.

"Naturally, when I first heard of the plan I was slightly doubtful, but when I saw the surroundings and met Dr. Schmalhausen, I felt as though David would receive the best care possible," she wrote in her reply.

"From the very beginning," she said, "I have had every confidence in Dr. Schmalhausen's ability in caring for my baby."

ciation for Student Teaching which notes the increasing popularity of off-campus experience for practice teachers. A number of faculty members pointed to disadvantages of the proposal to drop the Eastern State High School.

There was agreement on a number of basic considerations and detailed proposals by the Unit Board representatives and the faculty committee. Among them was the recommendation by the T. C. Board advisory committee for Eastern that the high school be abandoned on July 1, 1955. No faculty member is to lose his position on account of this action. Some of the possible assignments are junior high teaching, off-campus student teaching supervision, and college teaching. The Charleston Board will accept a limited number of student teachers, perhaps not more than 20, in the senior high. Other agreements relate to assignments, pay for supervision of student teachers, etc. There was a proposal, to be studied, for making the college elementary school an area school.

The Teachers College Board has not yet taken formal action with regard to abandonment of the Eastern High School.

Three Eastern Professors Get Ph. D's in February

Three Eastern professors took the doctor's degree in February. F. Raymond McKenna, education, took the Ed. D. from Harvard; Bob Carey, basketball coach, received the Doctor of Physical Education degree from Indiana University; and Lester VanDeventer, mathematics, was awarded the Ed. D. by the University of Illinois. VanDeventer holds the B. S. in Ed. from Eastern, 1938.

High School Moves into Newly Remodeled Training School

New Quarters Provide Library, Space for Self-Monitored Study Groups, Other Desirable Features.

Eastern State High School students moved from Old Main into new quarters in the remodeled Training School Building on the college campus on March 15. Students assisted with the moving operations:

Owen Brosam, contractor, completed remodeling work early in March. The $180,000 project was begun in March, 1953.

Fire Hazards Removed

The remodeling eliminated wooden stairways which constituted a fire-trap. The halls are now supported by steel I-beams and steel stairways at the north and south ends of the building are glassed in to reduce the first hazard. Instead of a center stairway, there are now a few steps up into a light and airy library on the first floor. The library room appeared in original plans as an auditorium, but was not included when the building was erected in 1911-13.

Besides the library, the high school will use most of the second and third floor rooms. Offices for Principal Thomas Phillips and Director of Teacher Training Hans Olsen will be located on the first floor but most of the other space is being reserved, pending policy decisions by the Charleston Unit Board and the Teachers College Board.

Assembly Still in Old Main

Most of the classes which have been held in Old Main since the campus senior high opened in 1918-19 will now be held in the Training School Building. The assembly on the second floor east, Old Main, will be retained, however, and typing, home economics, industrial arts, science, and physical education classes will continue to use other quarters on campus. A typing practice room is available in the new building.

According to Dr. Phillips, the new facilities will permit the high school to do many things long considered educationally advisable but impossible because of cramped quarters. For example, large study halls have been outmoded for years. The large number of small conference rooms and halls will permit an expansion of a type of self-monitored study with which Dr. Phillips has already experimented. Student teachers from the college may be assigned to help these small groups.

The library is large enough to permit proper display and use of various kinds of study helps.

The high school will be open to observation by college students as never before, according to Phillips.

The High School Student Council is planning to furnish one of the big third floor rooms of the building as a student lounge.

College to Use Some Rooms

Some of the classrooms in the building will be used by the college. One will be a film projection room. Another is planned as a materials display room. The newest books in education and various kinds of instructional devices and equipment will be on year-round display.

New Floors, Wiring, Etc.

Among improvements in the old building not previously mentioned are asphalt tile floors over plywood in classrooms and halls, some new ceramic tile floors, complete new wiring, acoustic tile ceilings, redecoration in a variety of modern shades throughout, new corkboards, new doors and locks, fluorescent lighting, and various minor changes and pieces of new equipment.

Three Phi Sig Alumni Are Area Kiwanis Brass

Three former members of Phi Sigma Epsilon at Eastern are presidents of Charleston area Kiwanis clubs this year. They are Bill Reat, Charleston; Bob Sheets, Toledo; and Wayne Gordon, Lincoln.

Not Forgotten

Dr. Howard DeF. Widger, who died just before Christmas after being in retirement for only half a year. The Alumni Association has undertaken to raise a $2,000 fund in his memory, from which a scholarship will be awarded annually to the outstanding junior English major.

Dr. Widger taught at Eastern for 41 years, during which he established a reputation for scholarship, teaching skill, integrity, and humanity that is seldom equalled in the academic world.

Heading the committee in charge of the fund-raising campaign is Dr. Widger's long-time friend and colleague, Dr. Eugene Waffle, who succeeded him as head of the English department.

Eastern State Clubs Call Spring Meetings

Eastern State Clubs are beginning to set dates for spring meetings throughout the state. As this is written, only two can be definitely announced: March 30 for the Montgomery County Club and April 27 for the Macon County Club. Presidents of the other clubs should contact Stanley Elam, Office of Public Relations and Alumni, as soon as arrangements for a place and date have been made. A number of excellent programs, including a fine film of the Eastern-Normal basketball game that gave Eastern its sixth straight IIAC championship, can be supplied this year.

Remember Those Eastern Cafeteria Goodies?

Mrs. G. Presents Her Best Recipes

When work seems rather dull to me
And life is not so sweet,
One thing at least can bring me
Joy—
I simply love to eat."

Rebecca McCann

By Ruth Henderson Gaertner, '45
Director of Food Services, Eastern

Do you know of any universal pleasure that exceeds "The Joy of Eating"? The constant search for something new, a recipe that's different or a real treat, has put the book-book third in line of publications which are referred to the most frequently. (The Bible and the telephone directory are first and second.) At every gathering one wonders, "What will they have to eat?"

Your alma mater has kept step with the popularity of this universal pleasure by enlarging its facilities for serving students.

Up until February 4, 1948, only 90 students were served regular meals on campus. Today 1800 to 2000 meals are served daily in our four food services, school lunch, cafeteria, Pemberton Hall, and Lincoln and Douglas Halls. Students not only enjoy good nutritious food at reasonable prices, but some 130 to 150 students find financial assistance by working during their free hours in the services. Someone has put it (probably one of our employees) that students working in food departments are "the cream of the crop". They must make their grades, be in good physical health, neat in appearance, have good personalities and high work standards to stay in employment. Many call these food services "melting pots" for all major differences. Sorority and fraternity loyalties are forgotten and all work happily together for each other for a common purpose. Dean Heller, in his praise for the work and morale of student employees, once intimated that it might be well to have a requirement of one term's work in a food service for all students.

Teacher Shortage . . . Ouch!

Eastern's Placement Bureau received more calls for teachers last year than any other Illinois teachers college, by 1,398. Eastern's total of different vacancies reported was 6,730.

Miss Rachael G. Richardson, '50 a Sullivan, Ill., High School English teacher, won the first prize of $10 in a nation-wide essay contest sponsored by the Christian Advocate on the subject, "Why I Go to Church." Her essay, chosen from more than 2,350 submitted by contestants from all of the 48 states, Puerto Rico, and Cuba, was published in the Jan. 21 issue of the Advocate, Methodism's official weekly magazine.

Miss Richardson is also the winner of a $10 first prize awarded by the Arthur Croft Publication, Washington, D. C., publisher of the Teacher's Letter, a bi-weekly news service for teachers. The contest was conducted to secure opinion concerning a problem of local association policy which had been presented in an issue of the Teacher's Letter.

"All in all," says Miss Richardson, "I have had quite a thrilling series of events of late."

Eastern's annual College Day will be held on April 29 this year, according to Dr. Ned Schrom, director of admissions.

In accordance with a recruiting experiment being conducted this year, schools of Edgar, Clark, Crawford, and Lawrence counties are not to be invited.

Same Tune, Words--Eastern Wins Again

By Ken Hesler

Once again the Eastern Panthers have wrapped up the Interstate Collegiate Athletic Conference basketball championship title, the sixth such they have won or shared in as many years.

Guided by Bob Carey in his first year of college coaching, a Panther five consisting of two sophomores, two juniors and one senior and a capable bench of reserves surprised even the most optimistic observers by winning the league title and finishing the season with a 17-6 record while playing some of the toughest small college competition in the Midwest.

The Panthers would have liked to cap their season by winning the NAIA district playoffs at Champaign; but the hard drive for the league title had taken its toll and the Panthers could not keep pace with Millikin in the second half of the NAIA opener. Eastern wound up its league race on the night of March 1 at Central Michigan and met Millikin in the first playoff contest on March 3.

Much of the Panthers' strength this season came from the bench.

Nelson McMullen and Bob Gosnell, 6-3 sophomore center from Lawrenceville, were the top reserves; but any of the firemen could be called on when needed.

The Western game at Macomb is probably the best example of Eastern's reserve strength. As the overtime started, both Chilovich and Brauer were out of the game and Gosnell had replaced Kenny at center. Thus, the Panthers out-played the Leathernecks in the overtime with three reserves. McMullen had come in for Chilovich and Kermit Radloff, Strasburg junior, had replaced Brauer.

Other reserves proved their merit during the season. Bill Parmentier, Gillespie, saw action in 11

Coaches Bob Carey and Rex V. Darling with the 1953-54 Eastern varsity that won the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference basketball crown with a 10-2 record. The season record was 17 won, 6 lost. Of the group pictured, only Martin Chilovich and Nelson McMullen are seniors.

games; Gene Murray, Winebago junior, was in 12 games and Dick McDonald, Mattoon sophomore, took part in eight contests. Lloyd Ludwig, the only freshman on the varsity squad, saw action in six varsity games in addition to playing in most of the scheduled B-team contests.

It might sound like the repititious playing of the same record if it weren't for the new tune. It has become a tradition that armchair coaches predict a dire future for each Eastern team; and the pre-season situation at Eastern this year provided plenty of ingredients for the prophets' caldron.

To many it looked as though the Eastern basketball machine had been completely disbanded. Only remnants of the 1952-53 championship team were two six-foot guards. Gone were seniors Bob Lee, Roger Dettro, Norman Patberg and Dwayne Roe; Ed Taylor, the starting center, had transferred to Case Institute. And to top it off, the coach had also left.

Bill Healey went to Northeast Missouri State College in Kirksville as athletic director. The experts were having a field day.

Then Bob Carey came to Charleston to take over the basketball reins; and when it came time to open the season against McKendree College at McKendree, Carey had found himself a starting five.

The two returning lettermen were at the guard posts. Martin Chilovich, Mt. Olive senior and the only returning regular, and Ken Ludwig, Effingham junior who had played one full college game his sophomore year, would form the nucleus of the squad. Jack Kenny, a 6-4 junior from Covington, Ind., would work the pivot position; and two 6-2 sophomores, Dean Brauer of Staunton and Ron Claussen of Chicago (Onarga) would hold down the forward spots.

And with that combination Coach Carey didn't do too badly. His squad swept through the season with a 17-6 record, losing only two of 12 games in conference play to capture an undisputed league title.

The Panthers won that opening game against McKendree 91-70;

That Victory Grin

Coach Bob Carey and his two senior Panthers, Nelson McMullen, left, and Martin Chilovich, strike a jubilant pose immediately following Eastern's 96-80 defeat of Illinois Normal in Lantz Gym, which assured Eastern of a share in the IAC title for the sixth straight year. Eastern later won the title outright by defeating Michigan Normal at Ypsilanti.

but many of the others weren't to be so easy. The record shows that Coach Carey's Panthers had what it takes to come through with the close games.

In their opening league game against Southern at Carbondale, the Panthers became the only IAC team to down the Salukis on their home floor, coming from nine points down in the fourth period to win 69-67.

Against a strong Western five at Charleston, Eastern's Jack Kenny knotted the score 80-80 at the end of regulation playing time to send the Panthers into their first of three overtime games. Two free throws by Nelson McMullen, top Eastern reserve and a senior from Hume, gave Eastern an 88-87 victory over the Leathernecks.

McMullen gave a repeat performance against Western when the Panthers travelled to Macomb. After Western had tied the score 78-78 at the end of 40 minutes of play, McMullen notched two points on a layup for Eastern's margin of victory in a 82-80 win.

The Panthers again came from behind at Franklin, Ind., when Ken Ludwig jumped in a 15-footer to tie the game 78-78 as the gun sounded. As the first overtime neared completion, the Panthers were again down two points, but Ron Claussen calmly dumped in two free throws to send the contest into a second overtime. In the second period Ludwig netted six of Eastern's ten points to lead the Panthers to an 88-82 victory.

The Panthers also came from behind to down Southern 64-60 at Charleston and to defeat Indiana State 80-77 at Terre Haute, a task Eastern teams have accomplished only twice in seven years.

Led by the scoring of Martin Chilovich and Dean Brauer, Eastern dropped such non-league foes as Illinois Wesleyan 75-60 and Beloit 72-68. Eastern split with Millikin during the regular season, losing 67-82 at Decatur and winning 87-81 in Lantz Gym. Millikin took an edge in the season series, however, by dropping the Panthers 95-68 in the opening round of the NAIA playoffs at Champaign. The joy of victory was short-lived for the Big Blue as Western won the championship round for the trip to the national tourney at Kansas City.

Eastern's five losses during regular season were to Indiana State, Illinois Normal, Lincoln University, Millikin and Central Michigan.

The loss to Indiana State was the only black mark on Eastern's home court record this season. State eked out a close 68-66 win. The Sycamore more have the distinction of being the only team to down the Panthers at Charleston since 1948. They have accomplished the task three times. Eastern's return victory at Terre Haute was sweet revenge.

Eastern's two league losses came by a total of four points. Illinois Normal won 96-95 at Normal and Central Michigan finished strong to drop the Panthers 72-69 at Mt. Pleasant. The victory for Central Michigan marked the first time the Chippewas have ever downed an Eastern squad. A stubborn Lincoln team came out with a last minute 74-66 win at Lincoln.

Dean Brauer led the Panthers in scoring. The 6-2 sophomore netted 399 points in 22 games for an average of 18.1 points per game. He was closely followed by senior Martin Chilovich, who averaged 17.8 points per game, scoring 373 points in 21 games. Ken Ludwig was the third high scorer with 321 points in 23 games for a per game average of 14.0. Jack Kenny netted 252 points, while Ron Claussen got 167 and Nelson McMullen 142.

Chilovich led the Panthers in shooting accuracy, hitting 43 per cent of his shots. From the field, Brauer hit 41 per cent and Kenny 37 per cent. Ken Ludwig led the Panthers at the free throw line, hitting 95 of 116 attempts for 82 per cent and a national ranking.

On a team basis, the Panthers maintained a scoring average of 80.6 points per game for 23 games and allowed their opponents 44.3 points per contest.

From the field, the squad hit 40 per cent of its shot attempts and ended the season with a 69 per cent mark at the free throw line.

For the first time in three years, Eastern finished a season with more rebounds than its opponents. Eastern averaged 40.6 rebounds per game to 38.4 for its opponents. Brauer was the top Panther rebounder with 196. He was followed in order by Kenny, Claussen, Chilovich and Bob Gosnell.

High marks of the year were Brauer's 31 points on 13 field goals and five free throws against Illinois Normal at Charleston; Ludwig's 12 free throws against Indiana State at Terre Haute.

Eastern's junior varsity basketball team, under the tutelage of Coach Rex V. Darling, completed the 1953-54 season with nine wins in 11 starts.

Only losses suffered by the B-team came at the hands of Indiana State and Illinois Normal. The Panthers evened the score in a return game with each.

The high mark of the junior varsity season came with a 113-60 win over Millikin at Charleston. Darling's squad held only a 39-32 lead over the Little Blue at halftime; but a 74-point scoring spree in the second half, including a 47-point fourth quarter, gave the Panther Pups their highest total of the year.

Near the middle of the season, Darling began to use a two-platoon basketball system against his opponents, alternating the teams each quarter.

One squad had the advantage of height, the other speed. The net effect of such a system was, generally, a very tired group of opponents in the fourth quarter. Occasionally Darling would mix the height and speed if the situation demanded.

Top scorer for the junior varsity was Lloyd Ludwig, 6-2 freshman from Effingham, with 153 points. Ralph Freeman, 6-0 freshman from Roxana, hit for 116, while Neil Admire, 6-4 Gillespie freshman, scored 128. It must be remembered that very few of the players averaged more than a halftime of playing in each game.

Other top performers on the junior varsity were Sam Anderson, 6-3 sophomore from Benld; Ed Hartweger, 6-2 freshman from Gillespie; Jerry Porter, 5-9 freshman from Mattoon; Dewey Lynn, 5-11 freshman from Petersburg; Jim Malone, 6-0 freshman from Sullivan; Jim Foran, 6-0 freshman from Morton Grove (a Niles Twp. High School graduate); John Bodine, 6-1, sophomore from Danville; Pete Krainock, 5-11 sophomore from Danville; and Ron Hicks, 5-7 freshman from Mooseheart.

One for the Book

The former Annabel Scott, '40, sends an interesting note which qualifies for the sports page.

Annabel is now Mrs. Harry Sortal. Sortal coached at Paris, Ill., between Eveland regimes. After a term in service, Sortal took a coaching position at the Negaunee, Mich., High School.

Negaunee is the school at which Dr. Bob Carey, Eastern's highly successful freshman coach, made a record of 55 wins and 21 losses in the four years which constituted his high school experience.

Team Names Chilovich Most Valuable for Season

Martin Chilovich, regular senior guard on the Eastern Illinois State basketball team, was named most valuable player for the 1953-54 season and selected as honorary captain.

In addition to the team awards, Chilovich was unanimously named to the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference all-league team and nominated as an NAIA All-America candidate by the executive committee of District 20.

In 21 games this season, Chilovich scored 373 points for an average of 17.8 points per game. He hit on 44 per cent of his field goal attempts and 67 per cent of his free throw tries, and was one of the team's top rebounders.

Three Regulars Make All-Conference Team

Three Eastern regulars were named to the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference's all-league squad for 1953-54.

Representing Eastern on the first five were Martin Chilovich, 6-0 senior guard from Mt. Olive, and Dean Brauer, 6-2 sophomore forward from Staunton. Ken Ludwig was named to the second squad.

Other players named to the first five were Harvey Welch, Southern; Norm Goldman, Northern; and Bill Sarver of Illinois Normal.

In addition to Ludwig, the second five consisted of Jacque Theriot, Southern; Tom Millikin, Southern; Marsh Stoner, Western; and Dick Kackmeister of Central Michigan.

One of the Best

Bill Waldrip, '40, took his Cumberland High team to the 'Sweet Sixteen' this year. Altho the Toledo-Greenup-Jewett boys lost to Thornton in the first round, they had already rolled up a spectacular 30-2 season record. Bill will be remembered as Eastern's leading scorer as a freshman in 1936-37. His college basketball career was cut short by illness.

Groves' Gym Team To Make Eleven Exhibitions

The Eastern Illinois State College gymnastic and tumbling team opened its 1954 season with an exhibition on March 16 at Casey High School.

The 1954 high school tour will mark the third consecutive year that the Eastern gymnasts under the direction of Dr. William Groves have exhibited their skills at area schools.

Eleven exhibitions are listed on the tentative schedule released by Dr. Groves. In addition to the demonstration at Casey, the Eastern gymnasts will perform in the high schools at Greenup, Newton, Effingham, Flora, Mattoon, Tuscola, Decatur, Taylorville, and Danville.

Included in the travelling performance are stunts on the trampoline, parallel bars, flying rings, with tumbling, ground pyramids, and highboard diving and clowning.

The demonstration team includes a full complement of performers and equipment. All equipment, including mats and apparatus, is carried by the group.

Dr. Groves attempts to arrange a schedule that will permit his group to present its exhibition to high school audiences on any one day it is away from the campus.

No admission is charged for the performances and Dr. Groves commends that all high schools scheduling the exhibition admit their pupils free.

The 1954 tour will be climaxed May 18 with an exhibition in Lantz Gym on the Eastern campus.

Tentative schedule is:

March 31—Greenup, 10 a.m.;
Newton 2 p.m.

April 8—Effingham, 10 a.m.;
Flora, 2 p.m.

April 28—Mattoon, 10 a.m.;
Tuscola, 2 p.m.

May 4—Decatur, 10 a.m.;
Taylorville, 2 p.m.

May 13—Danville, 2 p.m.

May 18 — Home exhibition at Lantz Gym.

Only Fisher Wins Consistently in '54 Wrestling Season

Ray Fisher, Charleston freshman, became Eastern's most successful wrestler this season when, on March 6, he captured the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference heavyweight crown.

Fisher had won two previous engagements this season: In the conference match held at Southern, Fisher outpointed Gene Hoffman, last year's 177lb champ, 8-2. In a meet held at Charleston earlier in the season, Hoffman had outpointed Fisher 12-3.

Other league rankings won by the Eastern squad under the direction of Coach John Nanovsky were two fourth place positions. These went to Bob Robinson (177), Ashmore freshman, and Paul Maxon (137), senior from Charleston.

Score of the IAC meet was Illinois Normal 33, Northern 32, Southern 24, Western 20, and Eastern 8. Eastern completed the season with a 0-5 record in dual meets, meeting Southern twice and tangling once each with Northern, Illinois Normal, and Western. Paul Maxon, a senior, scored the only individual victory not won by Fisher for Eastern, pinning his opponent at Western.
